Threat

A related URL was detected in association with CSS import while scanning the application. Relative URLs can be dangerous since browser may not determine the correct directory.
If the HTML uses path-relative CSS links, it may be susceptible to path-relative stylesheet import (PRSSI) vulnerabilities. This could allow an attacker to take advantage of CSS imports with relative URLs by overwriting their target file.

References:
Evil CSS Injection
Relative Path Overwrite Attack
Research paper: Large-Scale Analysis of Style Injection by Relative Path Overwrite

Impact

An attacker may trick browsers into importing JavaScript or HTML code as a stylesheet. This has been shown to enable a number of different attacks, including cross-site scripting (XSS) and exfiltration of CSRF tokens.

Solution

Based on our analysis of the application scanned we recommend the following options to mitigate the vulnerability:
Option 1:
- - Use absolute URLs for CSS import

Option 2:
- - Add the HTML "base" tag in the document which defines the base URL or target location for all the relative URLs

Option 3:
- Harden the application with following best practices:
- Set a DOCTYPE which does not allow Quirks mode as explained at https://hsivonen.fi/doctype/
- Set response header X-Frame-Options: deny
- Set response header X-Content-Type-Options: nosniff

Research paper: Large-Scale Analysis of Style Injection by Relative Path Overwrite

Impact

An attacker may trick browsers into importing JavaScript or HTML code as a stylesheet. This has been shown to enable a number of different attacks, including cross-site scripting (XSS) and exfiltration of CSRF tokens.

Solution

Based on our analysis of the application scanned we recommend the following options to mitigate the vulnerability:
Option 1:
- - Use absolute URLs for CSS import

Option 2:
- - Add the HTML "base" tag in the document which defines the base URL or target location for all the relative URLs

Option 3:
- Harden the application with following best practices:
- Set a DOCTYPE which does not allow Quirks mode as explained at https://hsivonen.fi/doctype/
- Set response header X-Frame-Options: deny
- Set response header X-Content-Type-Options: nosniff

Threat

A related URL was detected in association with CSS import while scanning the application. Relative URLs can be dangerous since browser may not determine the correct directory.
If the HTML uses path-relative CSS links, it may be susceptible to path-relative stylesheet import (PRSSI) vulnerabilities. This could allow an attacker to take advantage of CSS imports with relative URLs by overwriting their target file.

Details

Threat

The web page can be framed. This means that clickjacking attacks against users are possible.
Note: For both 150245 and 150124 only 10 pages are reported and only responses with status code 200 ok are tested and reported

Impact

With clickjacking, an attacker can trick a victim user into clicking an invisible frame on the web page, thereby causing the victim to take an action they did not intend to take.

Solution

Clickjacking prevention mechanisms include:
- X-Frame-Options: This HTTP response header can be used to prevent framing of web pages.
- Content-Security-Policy: The 'frame-ancestors' directive can be used to prevent framing of web pages.
- Framekiller JavaScript code designed to prevent a malicious user from framing the page. This method is not recommended due to its unreliability.

See the OWASP Clickjacking Defense Cheat Sheet for more information.
To avoid a common X-Frame-Options implementation mistake, see https://blog.qualys.com/securitylabs/2015/10/20/clickjacking-a-common-implementation-mistake-that-can-put-your-websites-in-danger.

Details

Threat
The web page can be framed. This means that clickjacking attacks against users are possible.
Note: For both 150245 and 150124 only 10 pages are reported and only responses with status code 200 ok are tested and reported

Impact
With clickjacking, an attacker can trick a victim user into clicking an invisible frame on the web page, thereby causing the victim to take an action they did not intend to take.

Solution
Clickjacking prevention mechanisms include:
- X-Frame-Options: This HTTP response header can be used to prevent framing of web pages.
- Content-Security-Policy: The 'frame-ancestors' directive can be used to prevent framing of web pages.
- Framekiller JavaScript code designed to prevent a malicious user from framing the page. This method is not recommended due to its unreliability.

See the OWASP Clickjacking Defense Cheat Sheet for more information.
To avoid a common X-Frame-Options implementation mistake, see https://blog.qualys.com/securitylabs/2015/10/20/clickjacking-a-common-implementation-mistake-that-can-put-your-websites-in-danger.

Threat

The polyfill.js is a popular open source library to support older browsers. Thousands of sites used to embed it using the cdn.polyfill.io domain. In February 2024, a Chinese company (Funnull) bought the domain and the associated Github account. The company had modified the polyfill.js script to introduce malicious code in to websites. Any script adopted from cdn.polyfill.io would immediately be downloading malicious code from the Chinese company's site. Scan of the target application resulted in detecting the presence of polyfill.js.

QID Detection Logic (Unauthenticated):
This QID checks the target application for presence polyfill JavaScript file.

Impact

Presence of insecure javascript allows attackers to embed malicious JavaScript into the users website allowing them to steal sensitive data, redirect users to malicious websites and possible code execution.

Solution

Modern browsers no longer require polyfill. The polyfill author recommends avoiding their use entirely. If need arises to use polyfill in your organization, the recommended alternatives are CDN such as Cloudflare and Fastly
Please check your polyfill.js source to ensure the script in your application is secure.

Vulnerable javascript library: Polyfill

Details:
Polyfill.js is a popular open source library to support older browsers. Thousands of sites embed it using the cdn.polyfill.io domain. In February 2024, a Chinese company (Funnull) bought the domain and the associated Github account. The company has modified the Polyfill.js script to introduce malicious code in to websites. Any script adopted from cdn.polyfill.io would immediately be downloading malicious code from the Chinese company's site.
Solution: Given that the modern browsers do not require Polyfill, original Polyfill author recommends to not use Polyfill at all. Recommended alternatives are CDN such as Cloudflare and Fastly.

Threat
The cookie does not contain the "secure" attribute.

Impact
Cookies with the "secure" attribute are only permitted to be sent via HTTPS. Cookies sent via HTTP expose an unsuspecting user to sniffing attacks that could lead to user impersonation or compromise of the application account.

Solution
If the associated risk of a compromised account is high, apply the "secure" attribute to cookies and force all sensitive requests to be sent via HTTPS.

Details

Threat

Possible DOM XSS vulnerability was found. There is a connection between source and the sink that may lead to a DOM XSS vulnerability.

Impact

Exploiting a DOM XSS vulnerability allows attackers to execute malicious scripts in the victim's browser. This can lead to data theft, session hijacking, website defacement, and malware distribution, resulting in compromised user trust and significant reputational and financial damage.

Solution

Review string progressions from source to sink. Mitigate DOM XSS by implementing robust sanitization and validation. Implement Content Security Policy (CSP) headers to restrict executable script sources, enhancing the application's security.

Details

Threat

Links were discovered via requests using an alternate User-Agent or guessed based on common mobile device URI patterns. The scanner attempts to determine if the Web application changes its behavior when accessed by mobile devices. These checks are based on modifying the User-Agent, changing the domain name, and appending common directories.

The extra links discovered by the Web application scanner during User-Agent manipulation are provided in the Results section.

Impact

The Web application should apply consistent security measures irrespective of browser platform, type or version used to access the application. If the Web application fails to apply security controls to alternate representations of the site, then it may be exposed to vulnerabilities like cross-site scripting, SQL injection, or authorization-based attacks.

Solution

No specific vulnerability has been discovered that requires action to be taken. These links are provided to ensure that a review of the web application includes all possible access points.

Results

Unique content discovered during User-Agent and common mobile device specific subdomains and paths manipulation:

Details

Threat

One or more links were not crawled because of an explicit rule to exclude them. This also occurs if a link is malformed.

Exclude list and Include list entries can cause links to be rejected. If a scan is limited to a specific starting directory, then links outside that directory will neither be crawled or tested.

Links that contain a host name or IP address different from the target application are considered external links and not crawled by default; those types of links are not listed here. This often happens when the scope of a scan is limited to the directory of the starting URL. The scope can be changed in the Web Application Record.

During the test phase, some path-based tests may be rejected if the scan is limited to the directory of the starting URL and the test would fall outside that directory. In these cases, the number of rejected links may be too high to list in the Results section.

Impact

Links listed here were neither crawled or tested by the Web application scanning engine.

Solution

A link might have been intentionally matched by a exclude or include list entry. Verify that no links in this list were unintentionally rejected.

Details

Threat

This check provides various details of the scan's performance and behavior. In some cases, this check can be used to identify problems that the scanner encountered when crawling the target Web application.

Impact

The scan diagnostics data provides technical details about the crawler's performance and behavior. This information does not necessarily imply problems with the Web application.

Solution

No action is required.

The maximum number of links specified for this scan has been reached. The links crawled to reach this threshold can include requests made via HTML form submissions and links requested in anonymous and authenticated states. Consequently, the list of links crawled (QID 150009) may reflect a lower number than the combination of links and forms requested during the crawl.

Impact

Some links that lead to different areas of the site's functionality may have been missed.

Solution

Increase the maximum number of links in order to ensure broader coverage of the Web application. It is important to note that increasing the number of links crawled can dramatically increase the time required to test the Web application.

Results

Maximum request count reached: 8000

Impact

Cookies may potentially contain sensitive information about the user.

Scan duration may increase if the web application sets a large number of cookies (e.g., 25 cookies or more) and QIDs 150002, 150046, 150047, and 150048 are enabled.

Solution

Review cookie values to ensure they do not include sensitive information. If scan duration is excessive due to a large number of cookies, consider excluding QIDs 150002, 150046, 150047, and 150048.

Details

Threat

The list of unique AJAX links crawled by the scanner appears in the Results section. The link may be either a URL with fragment (#) or a Selenium script. To open a URL with fragment, open it in browser. To open a Selenium script, use Qualys Browser Recorder Chrome extension. The number of AJAX links reported is limited to 1000.

Details

Threat
WAS will report "in-scope" JavaScript libraries discovered by the scanner during crawling and are provided in the Results section. In-scope means, links that are considered to be "in-scope" per the configuration set up for the Web Application. The discovered libraries are reported only once, based on the page on which they were first detected.

Each library is reported along with other information such as the URL of page on which it was first found, the version, and the URL of the .js file.

Impact

When including third-party JavaScript libraries, the application must effectively trust those libraries added. Without sufficient protection mechanisms, the functionality may be malicious in nature (i.e. either by coming from an untrusted source, being spoofed, or being modified in transit from a trusted source).

Solution

Use digital signatures or similar mechanisms to verify the software or data is from the expected source and has not been altered. Ensure libraries and dependencies, are consuming trusted repositories. If you have a higher risk profile, consider hosting an internal known-good repository that's vetted.

Details

Threat

Information disclosure is an application weakness in revealing sensitive data, such as technical details of the system or environment.

This check reports the various technologies used by the web application based on the information available in different components of the Request-Response.

Impact

An attacker may use sensitive data to exploit the target web application, its hosting network, or its users.

Solution

Ensure that your web servers do not reveal any sensitive information about your technology stack and system details

Please review the issues reported below:

Details

Threat

During the WAS scan, one of the request to links listed in results section of this QID resulted with HTTP 4xx response code. The list of supported 4xx response code are as below:

400 - Bad Request
401 - Unauthorized
403 - Forbidden
404 - Not Found
405 - Method Not Allowed
407 - Proxy Authentication Required
408 - Request Timeout
413 - Payload Too Large
414 - URI Too Long
Refer to QIDs 150009, 150148, 150152, and 150172 to check for the links scanned in the application. Links reported in 150528, if present in the above QIDs, indicate that the links were scanned.

Impact

The presence of a HTTP 4xx response during the crawl phase indicates that one of the requests to the link did not result in retrieving the content of that link. WAS depends on responses to detect many vulnerabilities on that link. If the link does not respond with an expected response during the scan vulnerabilities present on such links may not be detected.

Solution

Review each link to determine why the client encountered an error while requesting the link. Additionally review and investigate the results of QID 150042 which lists 5xx errors, QID 150019 which lists unexpected response codes and QID 150097 which lists a potential blocked request.

Results

Number of links with 4xx response code: 2

Details

Threat
Results section lists application links highlighting content type as application/octet-stream during crawl phase.

Impact
This might be serious vulnerability if the user is not aware as there might be sensitive content which can be downloaded and readable to any user on web.

Solution
For more information regarding content-type application/octet-stream HTTP header please refer. Application/Octet-stream

Details

Threat
WAS will report out-of-scope JavaScript libraries discovered by the scanner during crawling and are provided in the Results section. Out-of-Scope means the link was not "in scope" per the Web Application configuration. The discovered libraries are reported only once based on the page on which they were first detected.

Each library is reported along with other information such as the URL of page on which it was first found, the version, and the URL of the .js file. Check results of QID 150176, if present, for the in-scope JavaScript libraries detected

Impact
When including third-party functionality, such as a JavaScript library, the application trust those libraries added. Without sufficient protection mechanisms, the functionality could be malicious in nature (i.e. either by coming from an untrusted source, being spoofed, or being modified in transit from a trusted source).

Solution
Use digital signatures or similar mechanisms to verify the software or data is from the expected source and has not been altered. Ensure libraries and dependencies, are consuming trusted repositories. If you have a higher risk profile, consider hosting an internal known-good repository that's vetted.

Details

Threat

The Web server returned the following information from where the Web application scanning engine initiated. Information reported includes First Link Crawled, response Code, response Header, and response Body (first 500 characters). The first link crawled is the "Web Application URL (or Swagger file URL)" set in the Web Application profile.

Impact

An erroneous response might be indicative of a problem in the Web server, or the scan configuration.

Solution

Review the information to check if this is in line with the expected scan configuration. Refer to the output of QIDs 150009, 150019, 150021, 150042 and 150528 (if present) for additional details.

Details

Threat
Local storage typically stores data on user or client's system.

Detection: WAS identifies both local and session storage done via client side JavaScripts.

Impact
Cross site scripting may allow stealing of sensitive data present in local storage.

Solution
Web application must sanitize all the user input to prevent cross site scripting.

If possible use IndexedDB instead of LocalStorage.

Use server side session cookies.

Details

Threat

External domains detected in the application. Using external domains in an application introduces risk by potentially exposing the application to external threats and dependencies, which can be exploited for malicious purposes such as data exfiltration, phishing, or compromise of application integrity. These vulnerabilities arise from inadequate validation, reliance on unsecured external services, and the application's failure to enforce strict security controls over external interactions.

Impact

N/A

Solution

Audit external domains accessed by your application. If possible launch scans against those.

Threat

The following is a list of supported SSL ciphers.

Note: If a cipher is included in this list it means that it was possible to establish a SSL connection using that cipher. There are some web servers setups that allow connections to be established using a LOW grade cipher, only to provide a web page stating that the URL is accessible only through a non-LOW grade cipher. In this case even though LOW grade cipher will be listed here QID 38140 will not be reported.

Details

Threat

SSL session is a collection of security parameters that are negotiated by the SSL client and server for each SSL connection. SSL session caching is targeted to reduce the overhead of negotiations in recurring SSL connections. SSL sessions can be reused to resume an earlier connection or to establish multiple simultaneous connections. The client suggests an SSL session to be reused by identifying the session with a Session-ID during SSL handshake. If the server finds it appropriate to reuse the session, then they both proceed to secure communication with already known security parameters.

This test determines if SSL session caching is enabled on the host.

Impact

SSL session caching is part of the SSL and TLS protocols and is not a security threat. The result of this test is for informational purposes only.

Details

Threat
SSL/TLS protocols have different version that can be supported by both the client and the server. This test attempts to send invalid protocol versions to the target in order to find out what is the target's behavior. The results section contains a table that indicates what was the target's response to each of our tests.

Details

Threat

Certificates are used for authentication purposes in different protocols such as SSL/TLS. Each certificate has a validity period outside of which it is supposed to be considered invalid. This QID is reported to inform that a certificate will expire within next six months. The advance notice can be helpful since obtaining a certificate can take some time.

Impact

Expired certificates can cause connection disruptions or compromise the integrity and privacy of the connections being protected by the certificates.

Solution

Contact the certificate authority that signed your certificate to arrange for a renewal.

The following is a list of detected SSL/TLS protocol properties.

Impact
Items include:
- Extended Master Secret: indicates whether the extended_master_secret extension is supported or required by the server. This extension enhances security and is recommended. Applicable to TLSv1, TLSv1.1, TLSv1.2, DTLSv1, DTLSv1.2
- Encrypt Then MAC: indicates whether the encrypt_then_mac extension is supported or required by the server. This extension enhances the security of non-AEAD ciphers and is recommended. Applicable to TLSv1, TLSv1.1, TLSv1.2, DTLSv1, DTLSv1.2
- Heartbeat: indicates whether the heartbeat extension is supported. It is not recommended to enable this, except for DTLS. Applicable to TLSv1, TLSv1.1, TLSv1.2, TLSv1.3, DTLSv1, DTLSv1.2
- Truncated HMAC: indicates whether the truncated_hmac extension is supported. This can degrade security and is not recommended. Applicable to TLSv1, TLSv1.1, TLSv1.2, DTLSv1, DTLSv1.2
- Cipher priority: indicates whether client, server or both determine the priority of ciphers. Having the server determine the priority is recommended. Applicable to SSLv3, TLSv1, TLSv1.1, TLSv1.2, TLSv1.3, DTLSv1, DTLSv1.2

OCSP (Online Certificate Status Protocol) is a protocol to determine the status of an SSL certificate, specifically whether a certificate has been revoked by the issuing certificate authority. SSL servers can provide the OCSP status of their certificate as part of the SSL/TLS handshake. This information is referred to as "Status Request" or "OCSP Stapling".

Details

Threat

SSL Certificate Transparency is an industry effort to improve visibility into the process of how certificate authorities issue certificates. It is designed to allow the owners of domain names to find all certificates that have been issued for their domains, and which certificate authorities have issued them. This is done by requiring certificate authorities to publish all issued certificates in public logs. TLS servers can then provide cryptographic evidence to TLS clients that the server certificate has been registered in public logs, thus providing some degree of confidence that the certificate is legitimate. Such cryptographic evidence is referred to as an "SCT Log Proof".

The information below lists all validated SCT Log Proofs for server certificates along with information about the public log, where available.

Details

Threat

Secure Socket Layer (SSL) and Transport Layer Security (TLS) renegotiation are vulnerable to an attack in which the attacker forms a TLS connection with the target server, injects content of his choice, and then splices in a new TLS connection from a client. The server treats the client's initial TLS handshake as a renegotiation and thus believes that the initial data transmitted by the attacker is from the same entity as the subsequent client data. TLS protocol was extended to cryptographically tierenegotiations to the TLS connections they are being performed over. This is referred to as TLS secure renegotiation extension. This detection determines whether the TLS secure renegotiation extension is supported by the server or not.

Details

Threat

The Host Scan Time is the period of time it takes the scanning engine to perform the vulnerability assessment of a single target host. The Host Scan Time for this host is reported in the Result section below.

The Host Scan Time does not have a direct correlation to the Duration time as displayed in the Report Summary section of a scan results report. The Duration is the period of time it takes the service to perform a scan task. The Duration includes the time it takes the service to scan all hosts, which may involve parallel scanning. It also includes the time it takes for a scanner appliance to pick up the scan task and transfer the results back to the service's Secure Operating Center. Further, when a scan task is distributed across multiple scanners, the Duration includes the time it takes to perform parallel host scanning on all scanners.

Details

Threat

HTTP response headers like 'Server', 'X-Powered-By', 'X-AspNetVersion', 'X-AspNetMvcVersion' could disclose information about the platform and technologies used by the website. The HTTP response include one or more such headers.

Impact

The headers can potentially be used by attackers for fingerprinting and launching attacks specific to the technologies and versions used by the web application. These response headers are not necessary for production sites and should be disabled.

Solution

Disable such response headers, remove them from the response, or make sure that the header value does not contain information which could be used to fingerprint the server-side components of the web application.

Results

One or more response headers disclosing information about the application platform were present on the following pages:

Details

Threat

The integrity attribute is missing in script and/or link elements. Subresource Integrity (SRI) is a standard browser security feature that verifies the value of the integrity attribute in

Impact

Absence of SRI checks means it is impossible to verify that the third-party resources are delivered without any unexpected manipulation.

Solution

All script and link elements that load external content should include the integrity attribute to ensure that the content is trustworthy.

Details

Threat

The X-Content-Type-Options response header is not present. WAS reports missing X-Content-Type-Options header on each crawled link for both static and dynamic responses. The scanner performs the check not only on 200 responses but 4xx and 5xx responses as well. It's also possible the QID will be reported on directory-level links.

Impact

All web browsers employ a content-sniffing algorithm that inspects the contents of HTTP responses and also occasionally overrides the MIME type provided by the server. If X-Content-Type-Options header is not present, browsers can potentially be tricked into treating non-HTML response as HTML. An attacker can then potentially leverage the functionality to perform a cross-site scripting (XSS) attack. This specific case is known as a Content-Sniffing XSS (CS-XSS) attack.

Solution

It is recommended to disable browser content sniffing by adding the X-Content-Type-Options header to the HTTP response with a value of 'nosniff'. Also, ensure that the 'Content-Type' header is set correctly on responses.

Details

Threat

No Content-Security-Policy (CSP) is specified for the page. WAS checks for the missing CSP on all static and dynamic pages. It checks for CSP in the response headers (Content-Security-Policy, X-Content-Security-Policy or X-Webkit-CSP) and in response body (http-equiv="Content-Security-Policy" meta tag).

HTTP 4xx and 5xx responses can also be susceptible to attacks such as XSS. For better security it's important to set appropriate CSP policies on 4xx and 5xx responses as well.

Impact

Content-Security Policy is a defense mechanism that can significantly reduce the risk and impact of XSS attacks in modern browsers. The CSP specification provides a set of content restrictions for web resources and a mechanism for transmitting the policy from a server to a client where the policy is enforced. When a Content Security Policy is specified, a number of default behaviors in user agents are changed; specifically inline content and JavaScript eval constructs are not interpreted without additional directives. In short, CSP allows you to create a whitelist of sources of the trusted content. The CSP policy instructs the browser to only render resources from those whitelisted sources. Even though an attacker can find a security vulnerability in the application through which to inject script, the script won't match the whitelisted sources defined in the CSP policy, and therefore will not be executed.

The absence of Content Security Policy in the response will allow the attacker to exploit vulnerabilities as the protection provided by the browser is not at all leveraged by the Web application. If secure CSP configuration is not implemented, browsers will not be able to block content-injection attacks such as Cross-Site Scripting and Clickjacking.

Solution

Appropriate CSP policies help prevent content-injection attacks such as cross-site scripting (XSS) and clickjacking. It's recommended to add secure CSP policies as a part of a defense-in-depth approach for securing web applications.

Details

Threat

The Referrer Policy header is used to control the flow of information from the source to the destination when a link is clicked. During the scan checks are done for the presence of the Referrer Policy on all static and dynamic pages. One of the following values for Referrer Policy in the response headers was found to be missing:

1) no-referrer
2) no-referrer-when-downgrade
3) same-origin
4) origin
5) origin-when-cross-origin
6) strict-origin
7) strict-origin-when-cross-origin

If the Referrer Policy header is not found, the response body is checked for a meta tag containing the tag name as "referrer" and one of the above Referrer Policy. Missing referrer header is reported for links with the following response codes - 2XX, 4xx, and 5xx. Links that report a response code of 3xx will not be tested for presence of this header.

Impact

The Referrer-Policy header controls how much referrer information is sent to a site when navigating to it. Absence of Referrer-Policy header can lead to leakage of sensitive information via the referrer header.

Solution

Referrer Policy header improves security by ensuring websites don't leak sensitive information via the referrer header. It's recommended to add secure Referrer Policies as a part of a defense-in-depth approach.

Details

Threat

The Permissions-Policy response header is not present.

Impact

Permissions-Policy allows web developers to selectively enable, disable, or modify the behavior of some of the browser features and APIs within their application.

A user agent has a set of supported features(Policy Controlled Features), which is the set of features which it allows to be controlled through policies.

Not defining policy for unused and risky policy controlled features may leave application vulnerable.

Solution

It is recommended to define policy for policy controlled features to make application more secure.

Details

Threat

Cache-Control header present but directives may not configured to adequately safeguard sensitive information.

For Example:
Cache-Control directive set to public.

max-age value is greater than 86400.

Impact

If directive is set to public, the resource can be stored by any cache.

If max-age value is greater than 86400 for sensitive information may lead to information leakage.

Solution

Please check that resources with sensitive information are not configured with Cache-Control public directive.

Also please make sure that max-age directive value set properly to not cache sensitive information for longer period than needed.

Details

Threat

URLs reported does not have correct MIME type and were successfully loaded during the scan. WAS scan identifies if the file requested matches with returned Content-Type.

Impact

An attacker might be able to steal the user authentication credentials and mount other cross-site scripting attacks.

Solution

Review web application to contain only valid links with proper MIME type. Implement X-Content-Type-Options header.

Details

Threat

HTTP defines methods (sometimes referred to as verbs) to indicate the desired action to be performed on the identified resource. TRACE and TRACK methods are defined by Apache and allow a user to echo the content of a request.
Diagnosis: Scan makes a request with TRACE method and looks for 200 response.

Impact

When TRACE or TRACK methods are available on the web server, attackers may perform an attack called "Cross site tracing". Due to the TRACK/TRACE methods, an attacker can echo sensitive headers from the web server, opening a way to steal sensitive information like cookies or authentication data.

Solution

Disable if TRACE method is not required.

Results

Request: https://wa-pp-ne-cmes-reporting-superdepotui-prod.azurewebsites.net/
Comment: TRACE method is enabled (Unauth 200).

Details

Threat

The list of links with lowest bytes/sec which are assumed to be resources with highest resource consumption. The links in the list have slower transfer times speeds to an average resource on the server. This may indicate that the links are more CPU or DB intensive than majority of links.

The latency of the network and file size have no effect on calculations.

Impact

The links with high resource consumption could be used to perform DOS on the server by just performing GET Flooding. Attackers could more easily take the server down if there are huge resource hogs on it, performing less request.

Solution

Find the root cause of resources slow download speed.

If the cause is a real CPU strain or complex DB queries performed, there may be a need for re-engineering of the web application or defense measures should be in place. Examples of defense against DOS that is targeted towards high resource consumption links are Load Balancers and Rate Limiters.

Threat
HTTP Strict Transport Security (HSTS) header was found to be missing or misconfigured. The HSTS header instructs browsers that all subsequent connections to the website, for a configurable amount of time, should be performed over a secure (HTTPS) connection only. Additionally, it instructs browsers that users should not be permitted to bypass SSL/TLS certificate errors, in the event of an expired or otherwise untrusted certificate for example.

Impact
If HSTS header is not set, users are potentially vulnerable to man-in-the-middle (MITM) attacks, SSL stripping, and passive eavesdropper attacks.

Solution
For information about how to implement the HSTS header properly, refer to the OWASP HTTP Strict Transport Security Cheat Sheet.

Results

Strict Transport Security header missing for

Details

Threat
The X-Frame-Options header is not set in the HTTP response, meaning the page can potentially be loaded into an attacker-controlled frame. This could lead to clickjacking, where an attacker adds an invisible layer on top of the legitimate page to trick users into clicking on a malicious link or taking a harmful action.

Note: Only responses with status code 200 ok are tested and reported for 150245 and 150124

Impact
Without an X-Frame-Options response header, clickjacking may be possible. However, if the application properly uses the Content-Security-Policy "frame-ancestors" directive, then modern web browsers would stop the page from being framed and prevent clickjacking.

Solution
The X-Frame-Options allows three values: DENY, SAMEORIGIN and ALLOW-FROM. It is recommended to use DENY, which prevents all domains from framing the page or SAMEORIGIN, which allows framing only by the same site. DENY and SAMEORGIN are supported by all browsers. Using ALLOW-FROM is not recommended because not all browsers support it.

Note: To avoid a common X-Frame-Options implementation mistake, see https://blog.qualys.com/securitylabs/2015/10/20/clickjacking-a-common-implementation-mistake-that-can-put-your-websites-in-danger.

Results

X-Frame-Options header is missing or not set to DENY or SAMEORIGIN for the following pages:

Details

Threat

The cookies listed in the Results section are missing the SameSite attribute.

Impact

The SameSite cookie attribute is an effective countermeasure against cross-site request forgery (CSRF) attacks. Note that a missing SameSite attribute does not mean the web application is automatically vulnerable to CSRF. The scanner will report QID 150071 if a CSRF vulnerability is detected.
